How to Prepare for Your Strategy Call

We are thrilled to guide you through your journey to studying medicine abroad. The strategy call is a pivotal step where we get to learn about your aspirations, address your queries, and set the stage for your future endeavors in the medical field.

To ensure that we can provide you with the most relevant advice and support, please consider the following questions before our call. These reflections will help us tailor our discussion to your unique situation and goals.

Questions to Think About Before Your Strategy Call

Reflecting on these questions will help us understand your interests, concerns, and aspirations better. You don't need to have all the answers, but thinking about these questions can make our discussion more fruitful:

1. Your Inspiration for a Medical Career:

- Reflect on what draws you to the field of medicine. Is it a passion for helping others, a fascination with medical science, or a desire to make a significant impact in healthcare? Understanding your motivation will help us guide you towards achieving your aspirations.

2. Interest in Specific Medical Fields:

- If you have any, share your interests in particular areas of medicine. Are you drawn to a specific specialty such as pediatrics, neurology, or surgery? This information can help us discuss relevant educational paths and opportunities.

3. Questions or Concerns About Studying Abroad:

- Note any uncertainties or queries you have about pursuing medical education in another country. This can include questions about cultural adjustments, language barriers, curriculum differences, or financial considerations.

4. Adaptability to a New Environment:

- Consider how you feel about living and studying in a culturally different setting. Are there specific concerns or excitements you have about this experience? Your comfort and readiness to adapt are crucial factors in choosing the right destination for your studies.

5. Support Expectations from Divine Education Abroad Consultancy:

- Think about what you hope to receive from working with us. Are you looking for guidance on selecting the right university, assistance with application processes, or support for preparing for entrance exams? Identifying your expectations will help us serve you better.

6. Balancing Studies and Personal Life:

- Reflect on how you plan to manage your academic responsibilities along with personal well-being and extracurricular interests while abroad. Effective time management and resilience are key to thriving in a rigorous program.

7. Expectations from the Medical Program:

- Envision what you aim to achieve through the medical program. Consider aspects like academic rigor, hands-on experience, research opportunities, and how it aligns with your career goals.

Gathering Your Academic Records

While not mandatory for the call, compiling any academic achievements, extracurricular involvements, and any awards or recognitions you've received can be beneficial. This information will allow us to get a comprehensive view of your academic profile and extracurricular engagements, further enabling us to provide personalized advice and strategies tailored to your achievements and aspirations.

What Can you Expect in the Strategy call?

- Personalized Guidance:
Tailored advice based on your academic background, career aspirations, and personal preferences, ensuring you find the medical program that's the perfect fit for you.
- Expert Insights:
In-depth knowledge of the admissions process, entrance exams, and scholarship opportunities that can significantly enhance your application and increase your chances of acceptance.
- Strategic Planning:
A step-by-step action plan designed to navigate the complexities of applying and preparing for medical school abroad, saving you time and avoiding common pitfalls.
- Ongoing Support:
Our commitment doesn't end with the call. You'll receive continuous support throughout your application process, from refining your personal statement to preparing for interviews.
